The history of Thurn Water Castle

The first documented mention of Schloss Thurn was in 1422. In the 18th century a fortified residential tower surrounded by moats evolved into the present-day Baroque castle complex.

In 1747 Lothar Franz Horneck von Weinheim began rebuilding the former knight's castle into an opulent pleasure castle. It was during this period that the Baroque facade, farm buildings and playful Rococo pavilion were developed.

In 1975 an amusement park was carefully integrated into the complex in order to retain the castle's historical value and make the castle park accessible to all. The old trees, the ponds and the castle continue to this day to provide the unique setting for relaxation, nature and fun leisure activities for all of the family.
